NEW YORK OFFICE BUILDING TAPPED FOR RENOVATION

NEW YORK CITY — Construction has commenced on New York City-based Rosen Johnson Architects' renovation of the 42-story office property located at 515 Madison Ave. in New York City. The upgrades include a new glass roof on the wrought-iron entrance marquee, enhanced signage, a new reception desk and improved lighting. The lobby has also been enlarged. The property was built in 1931, and Rosen Johnson has blended its new design with the building's historic features.
